Asda plan 'beginning of the end'

PLANS for an Asda store, shops and an 80-bedroom hotel at a gateway to Newmarket have been rejected by town councillors.

The planning bid, by the Unex Group for the land bounded by High Street, Rowley Drive and Black Bear Lane was recommended for refusal by members of the development and planning committee on Monday after being branded "the beginning of the end" for the town.

Councillors voted against it because it would contravene policy which stops land currently in horseracing use from being put to a different purpose.

The development, part of which would be sited on paddock land, would include a 40,000sq ft supermarket, petrol station, a bar or restaurant, 492 parking spaces and a new stable block and yard.

Both Queensbury Lodge and the nearby cottage, dilapidated listed buildings in High Street, would be restored and turned into shops while a roundabout would be installed at the junction of High Street with Dullingham Road.

Several members of the public spoke out against the plans at the packed meeting including William Gittus, managing director of Jockey Club Estates, who spoke on behalf of the business and the Newmarket Horsemen's Group, which includes Tattersalls, Darley and others.

He said they were as keen as anyone to find a solution to the "eyesore" at the top of High Street but urged the council to refuse the proposals, questioning the message planning permission would send to other owners of racing property struggling in Newmarket.

He said: "If this application is granted we will see the beginning of the end of the town as we know it."

WE'VE DONE IT: Canoeists at the end of their trip to Ely from Upware to raise funds for Kennett Primary School's eco-building and EACH CP

It's an oarsome effort from charity canoeists

CANOEISTS stuck their oar in to raise more than £1,000 for a primary school's eco-building and a children's hospice charity.

Twenty-one people including children, parents and governors from Kennett Primary School, Maxine Burgess, a triathlete from Exning, and staff from the Godolphin yard left Upware shortly before noon and spent just over two hours paddling to Lavender Green in Ely.

Eva Shipp, a governor at Kennett Primary, who organised the event and took part with her daughter Hannah, 8, said: "I would like to thank again everyone who took part in this event and those who sponsored us, not least Adrian and Graham of Slipstream Canoe Guides who helped make this event possible and for making sure we all got to Ely safely."

Their efforts in seven canoes on Sunday, May 13, raised £1,139 which will be divided between East Anglia's Children's Hospices and Kennett PTA. The PTA's share will go towards the eco-building made from recycled and sustainable materials which has just been given planning permission.

Coroner's warning after crash tragedy

JENNIE BAKER

A MUCH-loved dad was above the legal drink-drive limit when he died in a car accident in Freckenham, an inquest heard.

Brett Mullinger, from Lakenheath, was alone in a red Vauxhall Astra when it left a single carriageway road at a sharp bend and travelled down an embankment into trees, the hearing in Bury St Edmunds was told on Tuesday.

The 33-year-old father-of-one was pronounced dead at the scene at 11.25pm on December 16. He was found to have 116 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood. The legal limit is 80 milligrams.

Cannabis was also found in his system and he did not appear to have been wearing a seatbelt.

Coroner Dr Peter Dean said Mr Mullinger's death emphasised the importance of wearing a belt and the dangers of alcohol, drugs and driving.

He said: "Clearly what took place that evening was a very tragic accident that caused the death of Mr Brett John Mullinger."

Dr Dean said Mr Mullinger, a warehouseman from Woodcutters Way, had been on his way to a pub to meet a friend of 10 years, Paul Roberts, when the accident happened.

The inquest heard in a statement from Sue Riley, a colleague, that a group had been at a Christmas meal earlier that day and Mr Mullinger had not drunk any alcohol but he had consumed some later on.

A statement from Alison Washtell, who came across the scene of the accident, said she had run down the embankment to Mr Mullinger who appeared unconscious but breathing while her husband, Timothy, had called the emergency services.

Dr Dean said: "She took hold of his hand, reassured him that help was on the way, remained with him and described his breathing as becoming more shallow."

following his death, his family said he had had many friends and had been much loved.

In a statement, they said: "All who knew Brett loved him, no more so than his mum and dad. He was their best friend, too."

They said Mr Mullinger and his daughter, Chloe, who is of primary school age, had been very close.

His family said: "There will always be a big hole in our hearts that will never be filled without you. We miss you so much, so very much already. You have left us far too soon."

Dr Dean said Mr Mullinger had died from multiple injuries and recorded a verdict of accidental death.

Town council rejects Asda plan

Richard Fletcher, a resident and former town councillor, said: "The loss of those paddocks for a supermarket and its car park would drive a coach and horses through the policy that is designed to protect our town. It would set a dreadful precedent for the future."

Michael Meeks, whose house would overlook the new roundabout, raised concerns about the road safety of the proposed development. He said: "The whole thing is ridiculous, it's unsafe, it's hazardous, it's unneeded, it vandalises pristine Greenfield land that is dedicated to horseracing."

While some councillors said flexibility was needed in the horseracing policy as it was applied in the present day, the committee voted against the application as a whole.

Cllr John Berry said: "While there is merit in parts of the application we cannot support the application as it stands, primarily because it contravenes the existing racing policy which we believe to be sacrosanct, even though we are very keen to see a satisfactory solution to the Queensbury Lodge impasse."

Bill Gredley, chairman of the Unex Group, who did not attend the meeting, said: "All this has been rehearsed with Forest Heath and others and we think that there is a general consensus with all this that it should go ahead and we had made some provision to acknowledge that it was racing land by the fact we are putting a stable and a small trainer's yard on the back."

He said he understood some people in the immediate neighbourhood of the proposed development may be unhappy but he said it the response to it had generally been positive.

He added: "It has been well received by most people because it's going to bring some life to the town, it's going to improve the traffic with a roundabout and so forth."

The recommendation will be put to the full town council at the end of the month and Forest Heath District Council will have the final say on whether the development should go ahead at a later date.

Primary school's move bid opposed

A PRIMARY school's bid to move to Brickfields Stud in Newmarket has been opposed by the town council.

Fairstead House School, which is based in Newmarket's Fordham Road, saw its application to change the use of part of the stud opposed by the council's development and planning committee on Monday.

The committee objected because of policy which prevents land in horseracing use from being put to other uses and because of the loss of equine land.

The school has proposed to replace the 28 horseboxes on the Brickfields site on adjacent land. Forest Heath District Council will make the final decision.

Royal visitor Anne meets a Mrs Elizabeth Winsor!

■ JENNIE BAKER

PRINCESS Anne visited Newmarket to open a £1.8m Racing Welfare housing scheme.

The Princess Royal arrived by helicopter on Monday to unveil a plaque at the Rous Memorial Court development of 16 affordable retirement flats which belong to the charity's housing arm, Racing Homes.

The royal – Racing Welfare's president – was given a tour and greeted the guests in a marquee on the site, including residents of the homes – one of them called Elizabeth Winsor – charity staff and town, district and county councillors.

Opening the development for retired racing and stud staff, she said: "It's always a pleasure to be able to open new homes and there are 16 of them here; and also in this environment it's a bonus."

She said there was a general shortage of affordable homes but Racing Welfare was creating accommodation for both young people starting their careers in racing as well as those at the end of their working lives.

Cedric Burton OBE, chief executive of Racing Welfare, said Princess Anne's visit showed the importance of the project and it drew attention to particular issues the development was addressing, such as the need for affordable housing in general and in market towns and rural locations in particular.

He highlighted the need for different solutions to meet the need, such as bringing heritage buildings back into use as well as a the need for private funding.

He said: "If you sit and wait entirely for state funding, it is not going to happen so you have got to think of innovative ways to get private investment."

The Grade II listed building, which was the Rous Memorial Hospital until the 1960s, was bought by Racing Welfare in 2010 and the work to refurbish it and convert it into the flats was paid for exclusively by donations from sources including Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum and the Macdonald-Buchanan Charitable Trust.

During her visit, Princess Anne visited the home of Elizabeth Winsor, 58, a scheme resident whose husband, known as George, had worked in racing and died of cancer in October aged 61.

The receptionist at the Rookery Medical Centre said the Princess

Royal had been "very down to earth" and had been interested in how the scheme worked.

Mrs Winsor said they had known Racing Welfare was there if they needed help and that knowledge had put her husband more at ease. She said: "They are there for support if you need them. We had visits from them and we always knew we could turn to them if we needed any help. I think it put my husband's mind at rest that he knew they would support me when he was gone."

Celebrity cricketers set for annual event

CELEBRITY cricketers are warming up for a fundraising match near Newmarket.

A star-studded Bunbury Cricket Club side will take on a home team of local players, including some from Comberton Village College, in the Carlton Celebrity Cricket Match in June.

The event has raised at least £70,000 for the Teenage Cancer Trust (TCT) and more than £20,000 for the English Schools Cricket Association in its six-year history.

David English MBE, organiser of the Bunburys, said: "Thanks to everyone involved who continue to make our Carlton adventure possible and I hope to see lots of people there to witness a fantastic day."

As well as raising funds for the TCT's new unit at Addenbrooke's and the charity helping schoolchildren into cricket, the match this year will also support East Anglia's Children's Hospices (EACH).

Among the celebrities likely to play are the Rolling Stones' former bass player Bill Wyman, former Australian cricketer Jeff Thompson and Perry Groves, the former Arsenal player.

While McFly's Harry Judd, who has captained the home team for years, is not able to attend, he urged others to support the event.

The event takes place from 10.30am on Sunday, June 24, will be hosted by Robin and Willow Wylie at the Old Rectory.

Admission costs £10 for adults and under-17s go free. Tickets will be available on the gate but to get them in advance, call Fiona Rosenberg on (01638) 507259 or email carltoncelebritycricket@gmail.com.

Man will be deported over cannabis

A MAN'S hopes of earning money in the UK for his family in Vietnam were ended when he was caught raising cannabis plants, a court heard.

Xuan Do, 24, had travelled illegally to the UK in the back of a lorry after his widowed mother mortgaged her home in the Asian country to finance the journey.

Do was arrested after police searched a house in Laurel Close, Red Lodge, on April 6.

Officers had been alerted by a strong smell of cannabis coming from the property and inside discovered 367 cannabis plants being cultivated, together with equipment for watering and heating them.

Prosecutor Michael Crimp told Ipswich Crown Court the equipment was being powered directly from the mains after the meter had been bypassed.

Do was found hiding under the kitchen sink clutching a mobile phone.

He told police that he had been looking after the cannabis crop for two months after finding himself in a country where he did not speak the language and had no other way of earning money.

Joanne Eley, defending, said Do had come to the UK in the mistaken expectation of being able to earn large amounts of money which he could send home to his family in north Vietnam. He had been approached and recruited by two men, possibly in France, and had been given instructions by them about cultivating the cannabis.

Miss Eley said: "He found himself trapped in a country where he had no money, no friends and couldn't speak the language."

Do had been served with a deportation order which he welcomed as he wanted to return to Vietnam, said Miss Eley.

Jailing Do for 12 months, Judge Rupert Overbury told him through an interpreter that he accepted his role had not been a leading one.

SPIZZLE your way into barbecue week with two free handmade pork and apple burgers.

La Hogue Farm Shop and Cafe in Chippenham has teamed up with the News to offer readers a double helping of the free-range burgers, which come straight from their butchery.

Readers can pick up their pack from La Hogue between now and next Wednesday – just in time for this weekend's predicted warm weather and National BBQ Week which kicks off on Monday.

Chris Reeks, a partner at La Hogue, said: "We are very proud of the local free-range meats we offer here and as it's National BBQ Week we wanted to celebrate that."

He said it was good for people to know where their food came from and that their pork is locally sourced – they get it from a farm where the animals are treated properly.

He said: "The pork comes from a Suffolk free-range farm called Blythburgh, which is near Southwold, which is where all our pork comes from. It's high-welfare and traditionally and beautifully produced. The pigs spend their entire lives outside; they are born and raised outside."

"The pork and apple burgers are a hugely popular product here, particularly during the summer for the barbecue season."

La Hogue is celebrating its 10th birthday this year and Mr Reeks said they had plenty of celebrations planned, including a refurbishment of the shop and special offers.

People are invited to pop in and peruse the seasonal food in the farm shop, stop off at the delicatessen and tuck into a fresh Cromer crab salad or a homemade quiche in the café.

To get your summer started, fill in and hand in the voucher. One pack per household while stocks last.

Pupils are hailed as good ambassadors

STAFF and students are celebrating after the treatment of a subject at Newmarket College was branded good by Ofsted.

An inspector visited the school at the end of April to assess its personal, social, health and economic (PSHE) education through visiting lessons, an assembly and meeting students.

Dr Bob Cadwalladr, principal of the school, said: "I am perhaps most proud that the students who met the inspector for their interviews and in lessons were singled out for praise as good ambassadors for the college and that they were exceptionally positive about the college and their experience here. There was a real sense of pride in their school."

Four parish councillors quit over 'poison-pen' campaign

"POISON-pen" emails are believed to have sparked the resignation of four Red Lodge parish councillors – leaving just two in post.

Two malicious messages are understood to have been sent out to community groups in Red Lodge, the parish council and local councillors at district and county level in the week leading up to two meetings of the authority on Monday, May 14.

The emails are understood to have criticised one of the four councillors – chairman Julie

■ JENNIE BAKER

Kerridge, Valerie Winfield, Katy Cooper and Nicola Johnston – who all stood down immediately before the session, which could then not go ahead. The messages are thought to have focused on the way affairs were run at the council.

Cllr Roger Dicker of Forest Heath District Council was among those to receive the emails he described as "rather nasty".

He remained tight-lipped over who they targeted and exactly what they said, but he added: "Four resigned because of the emails. They have not resigned because they wanted to come off the parish council. They have resigned because it was too much, I guess."

Cllr Dicker said parish councillors carry out their roles voluntarily and the councillors who chose to resign had felt enough was enough.

He said the writer or writers, who signed the emails only with the name of a group, could have expressed their views at a council meeting but chose not to.

He added: "It's sad because everybody on that council works hard and if you don't like the way something is being done, go to the meeting and voice your views, it's as simple as that."

Forest Heath District Council is going to use its emergency powers to co-opt Cllr Dicker and fellow district councillor Andy Drummond onto the parish council to allow it to stage an annual parish meeting and an AGM on Tuesday, May 29.

New councillors will either be co-opted or elected onto the authority at a later date.

Alcoholic admitted stealing drawing

A MAN who stole a drawing by a Swaffham Prior artist was caught by police after he drunkenly admitted his crime to a member of the public.

Members of the Cambridge Drawing Society were exhibiting their work at the city's Guildhall last month when a £250 drawing of an owl was stolen by a heavy drinker.

The drawing, called Hunter's Moon, was of a tawny owl against a bright moon. It belonged to Swaffham Prior artist Lorraine Izon.

A man found alcoholic Jeremy Baldwin, 44, lying on the ground in Emmanuel Street, Cambridge. Baldwin showed him the drawing and admitted taking it from the exhibition.

Baldwin, of Silverdale Avenue, Coton, pleaded guilty to theft at Cambridge Magistrates' Court. He was handed a one-year conditional discharge and told to pay £85 court costs.

We'd like to lance 'Suffolk pimple'...

Sir, we read recently that a public meeting concerning health issues for Newmarket was to be discussed in Worlington, which is not in Newmarket; it is actually quite near to somewhere beginning with M! With bad publicity, quite remarkably, it appears hardly anybody in Newmarket knew about the existence of the meeting, resulting in the forum being too small to make a quorum, was it? What a shame that nothing could have been discreetly decided without the inhabitants of Newmarket hearing about it.

Previous issues have been concerned with what to do about the land that comprise the "Surplus Newmarket middle school sites", made redundant by Forest Heath's new education two-tier plan. If the Newmarket land is sold for development purposes by Forest Heath on behalf of Suffolk County Council, that council will presumably receive the payment for same, "for reinvestment in education" (but where?). Not Newmarket Town Council or any entity pertaining to the town of Newmarket. And county councillors who do not specifically represent Newmarket remarkably appear very interested in pushing a deal through. A customer for the land might thus have his planning applications judged appropriately by those who do not live in Newmarket. So that's all right, then. I believe that Newmarket Town Council should inform Harmoni's regional medical director that Worlington is emphatically not central west Suffolk and that a sizeable proportion of Newmarket's population would be quite pleased to lance the town's "Suffolk pimple" (courtesy of Charles II) and have the whole town returned to Cambridgeshire... where we work and shop, attend cinemas and theatres, play against local sports teams, even advertise social events but cannot use health, justice or social facilities for which we are re-directed to distant Ipswich. And, having once paid for a superb recycling facility in Depot Road, Newmarket townspeople either have to pay a second time, excessively, to use it or trek out to the other side of, guess where, somewhere beginning with M. It's all local democracy.

Town's in the spotlight as Flat racing season gets into swing

IT'S good the Flat season is well and truly on us – Newmarket was a good place to be last week with racing at HQ.

Mind you, everybody was interested in Newbury on Saturday. Well done Frankel – another great win and it just shows you the best trainers and stable staff come from Newmarket.

Again Sunday seems to be travel day for the jockeys; well done to Robert Havlin who went off to Italy to win the Italian derby. Laura Pike went off to the Channel Islands again, a second home for her – will she win the ladies' championship this year? Hayley Turner had a good weekend also and looks favourite for the ladies' championship. Who will win at The Horseshoes awards at the end of the year at

RACING NEWMARKET

Social news from the racing scene with Howard Jones

Newmarket Racecourse?

With racing last week at Newmarket the night hotspots were packed again. De Niro's, The Yard and The Waggon and Horses again were the places to be. The New Astley Club have a poker night this Sunday so pop into to the club for more info.

This Sunday sees the Racing Newmarket football team go to RAF Honington again – we have a noon kick-off. We should have at least seven players from Godolphin, other players should include Gary Gillespie, Dan De Haan, Lewis Morgan, John Jeffrey, Darren Wakensham etc – we still have some places available if you're interested.

The guys are raising a bit of money for the New Astley Club this time – new gym equipment is needed. So if you would like to sponsor a player or make a donation to the club get in touch with me on (01359) 270733 or pop into the club and make a donation.

There is still room for shirt sponsorship – we could do with a rear-of-shirt sponsor. On June 24 we take on the Once Upon a Smile soapstars. Stars from all the soaps should be down. As a kit sponsor we could even find a place in the team for you!

On Friday keep an eye out for me. I will have five VIP tickets for one of the VIP parties. So if you spot me first ask me, and I will give you one ticket. They will go to five separate people so do not ask for all five!

On June 8, what's going on at The Yard pub?

Build-up of litter blamed for 'disastrous' flooding

■ JENNIE BAKER

LITTER louts have been blamed for flooding which forced some Newmarket residents to flee their homes.

Overflow from the town's watercourse left some homes and gardens in Sassoon Close knee-deep in muddy water earlier this month and meant some had to be evacuated into temporary accommodation.

Residents in the areas worst affected by the flooding told the News they had never seen anything like it.

Cllr Lisa Chambers, portfolio holder for waste at Suffolk County Council, said the flooding had been caused by the build-up of rubbish dumped in the number one drain.

The representative for Newmarket and Red Lodge said: "The blockages that resulted in localised flooding were caused by littering – items included shopping trolleys, empty drink cans and bottles and garden and household waste.

"Most of the items that were dumped in the area were found to be recyclable – bottles and plastic bags can be taken to the Newmarket recycling centre and disposed entirely free of charge.

"We would like to take this opportunity to ask residents to act with consideration and not to dump items. This has been disastrous for local residents and we must do all we can to prevent this happening in the future."

Cllr Chambers said the council cleared the rubbish that could be got at from the bank within hours of the flooding using a digger and a lorry to lower the water levels. She added the council is planning to clear the build-up of natural waste and other rubbish from the drain within the coming weeks.

She said: "A permanent measure will be put in place in six to eight weeks' time using machines that are lowered into the water to clear away silt and sand that has built up over time and any other debris that may be there."

Suffolk County Council is responsible for maintaining the watercourse above ground while Anglian Water takes charge of the underground section.

An Anglian Water spokesman said the clearing of their part was last completed in January.

Councils on lookout for homes to buy

OWNERS of empty buildings are being urged to consider selling up to help those who need homes in West Suffolk.

Havebury Housing Partnership has £547,000 to spend on buying, refurbishing and re-letting homes which have been vacant for at least six months.

They are also interested in commercial buildings which have been for sale for a while.

The provider of affordable housing is working with Forest Heath District Council and St Edmundsbury Borough Council to find properties.

Both councils are writing to the owners of empty homes asking if they would be prepared to sell. Opportunities for people to lease their empty properties could also be on the table.

Cllr Rona Burt, cabinet member for housing at Forest Heath District Council, said: "This funding opens up all kinds of options for bringing empty property back into use, and we are urging owners to come forward and discuss their options with us.

"They will be surprised at some of the options we can offer."

For more information, or if you know of any empty properties in the locality, call Melanie Mills of Havebury Housing Partnership on (01284) 722008.

RSPCA needs foster homes for horses

AN emergency appeal has been launched by the RSPCA to find foster homes for young horses as the number in its care doubles.

In East Anglia the charity has 38 youngsters aged 1 to 3 which suffered neglect and cruelty and last year is dealt with 116 complaints regarding abandoned horses in the region.

To tackle the growing crisis, the charity has launched the Stable Future appeal to find fosterers to temporarily look after some of its 270 youngsters which are too young to be ridden.

There is an array of youngsters in the region looking for homes including Womble, who was found collapsed in a field with his mother when he was just five months old.

The charity said he was so skinny his spine and hips were sticking out.

One year on, the RSPCA has nursed him back to health and he is looking for a foster home.

Sally Learoyd, the RSPCA's equine rehoming officer, said: "Over the past year we've seen a huge increase in the amount of horses being disowned or allowed to get into an appalling state because the trade in horses has collapsed.

"I've heard of young horses being sold for £5 – less than the price of a bottle of wine. I've heard of horses being bought and sold in pubs and we've come across a case of someone keeping a horse on a tower block balcony and feeding it on kitchen scraps."

The charity is asking people to foster one of its youngsters until it is old enough to be prepared for work and can be found a new home.

To apply, log on to www.rspca.org.uk/stablefuture or phone 0300 123 8000.

It's all Greek for children as clock is turned back to 490BC for a day

THE clock was turned back to 490BC for a Greek day at a Newmarket primary school.

Fairstead House School's Year 5 and 6 students donned tunics and took part in activities including wax tablet-making, pottery sculpting and fresco painting.

History Off the Page, a company which travels between schools, laid on the sessions to bring to life the ancient Greek period the youngsters have been studying.

Pupils were transported to the Agora in Athens at the time of the Battle of Marathon and a messenger fed them news from the front line.

They learned ancient Greek traditions and stories before dancing, acting and tucking into themed food at a banquet.

A spokesman for the school said: "The whole day was thoroughly enjoyed by all and the children went home buzzing with excitement and keen to tell their parents about their learning and experiences at school."

Scouts dig in at nature site

DIGGING IN: Mason Lake, 15, and his team of helpers at Red Lodge Heath

Picture: Richard Patterson 828311

SCOUTS spent Saturday helping explorers at a Red Lodge nature reserve.

They built steps which promise to make some hard-to-reach parts of the Red Lodge Heath easier to access and encourage people to go travel farther into the site.

Mason Lake, from RAF

Lakenheath, planned and led the effort by the group from the Boy Scouts of America as part his bid for Eagle Scout status.

The 15-year-old said: "I'm very thankful to Forest Heath District Council and Red Lodge Conservation Group for making this project possible. I hope that other Eagle projects can be arranged in this area in the future."

Their efforts have added to the work already put in at the site by the Red Lodge Conservation Group including installing new entrance gates and improving footpaths.

The Site of Special Scientific Interest is managed by the conservation group, Forest Heath District Council, Natural England and the owners of the land.

To help out with the work at Red Lodge Heath, call Matt Vernon, the co-organiser of the steps project, at Forest Heath on (01638) 719261 or email countryside@forest-heath.gov.uk.

Drink-driver clocked at more than 110mph

A DRINK-driver who led police on a high-speed chase out of Newmarket has not been sent straight to jail.

Joshua Stoggles was handed a suspended prison sentence at Ipswich Crown Court last Thursday despite driving along the A14 at more than 110mph with two passengers in the car.

The court heard Stoggles, 21, had failed to stop for police in a car park at the back of Newmarket's De Niro's nightclub at 4am on April 1, and had driven out of the town centre at 70mph pursued by a police van.

He was clocked doing 110mph in his Ford Puma as he headed for Kentford.

Michael Crimp, prosecuting, said a patrol car had taken over the chase and recorded Stoggles driving faster than 110mph on the eastbound A14.

JENNIE BAKER

Stoggles, from Worcester Close in Bury St Edmunds, had turned off at Risby, immediately rejoined the A14 and turned off at Fornham St Martin.

Mr Crimp said police ended the chase on safety grounds when Stoggles moved onto minor roads but another patrol car soon saw him drive over two mini roundabouts and stop.

The court heard Stoggles had got out of the car and ran off but he was found by officers hiding in a nearby field after they followed his footprints.

Tests showed he had twice the legal drink-drive level of alcohol in his blood.

Paul Forshaw, mitigating, said: "This was a reckless, stupid act where someone could have been killed. He now knows the danger he posed to other road users. This was aggravated by drink."

Mr Forshaw said Stoggles had suspected he was above the drink-drive limit and had decided to try to get away from the police.

Stoggles pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and driving with excess alcohol.

Mr Forshaw said: "This was an isolated incident. I think he has learned from his stupidity."

The court heard Stoggles had previously served a year in the Army and had applied to rejoin it.

Judge John Holt told Stoggles: "It seems to me that the best place for you is the Army."

He sentenced him to eight months' imprisonment suspended for 12 months with a condition he completes 100 hours of unpaid community work. He was disqualified from driving for three years.

in Brief

Judge refuses bail application

A 20-YEAR-OLD accused of robbing a pensioner who is recovering from a stroke has been refused bail.

Bjorn Grahm, of Riverside Close in Mildenhall, was not at Ipswich Crown Court for the bail application last Friday.

The court heard representations from Grahm's legal team and the Crown Prosecution Service before Judge Rupert Overbury decided he should remain in custody.

Grahm was charged with robbery and possession of an offensive weapon following the alleged incident in Kingsway, Mildenhall, on March 10.

A 76-year-old woman suffered a fractured arm and facial injuries as her handbag was allegedly grabbed.

Sean Woods, 21, of Gorton Close, Mildenhall, and Derek McCray, 22, of Heath Road, Brandon, are also in custody charged with robbery following the incident.

Woods faces two further charges of theft from a person in relation to two separate alleged incidents in Mildenhall on February 18 and February 23.

The three defendants are due before the court on June 1 for a plea and case management hearing.

Top poet set to pocket £1,000

THE hunt is on for a Newmarket poetry champion.

Poets have until June 30 to represent the town in The National Poetry Anthology.

Entry is free and like all other winners, the Newmarket winner gets a free copy of the book. One overall winner will receive £1,000.

Editor Peter Quinn said: "The National Poetry Anthology is designed to encourage new writers. It's now the biggest free-to-enter annual poetry contest in the UK."

"We picked 237 town winners last year but we want the new edition to include a winner from every town and village in the circulation area of the Newmarket News. So far, we haven't had enough entries from the area to achieve that."

All entrants must send in three unpublished poems on any subject – up to 25 lines including blank lines and 160 words each – to United Press, Admail 3735, London EC1B 1JB by June 30. Enclose a loose stamp if you want a reply.

Marine life for Liam

A MILDENHALL man has passed a series of gruelling tests to join the elite group of Royal Marines Commandos.

Liam Jamieson completed West Suffolk College's Public Services (Uniformed) National Diploma and worked his way through tests including a three-day course for potential Marines at a training centre in Devon.

He then faced the 32-week recruit training stage, which culminated in four days of commando tests.

The 19-year-old's passing out parade took place at the Devon training centre and was attended by Terry Barnes, his lecturer at West Suffolk College and a former Royal Marines Commando.

Liam has been posted to the 45 Commando Royal Marines in Arbroath in Scotland.

No appeal lodged by Lord Derby on 1,200 homes plan

LORD Derby has not challenged the Secretary of State's refusal to allow him to build up to 1,200 homes in north-east Newmarket.

Plans for the Hatchfield Farm development, which included employment space and shops, were thrown out by Forest Heath District Council last year.

And while Lord Derby appealed against the refusal to Eric Pickles, the minister's judgement published at the end of March upheld the authority's original decision.

The Earl of Derby had a month and a half during which he could have appealed against the latest judgement – which has now elapsed.

His spokesman said: "Lord Derby took the decision not to challenge the Secretary of State's decision on Hatchfield Farm and the six-week deadline in which he could have done so has since expired."

He remained tight-lipped on the reason for choosing not to appeal, but he confirmed Lord Derby had not ruled out submitting another application to develop the land.

The spokesman said: "No decision has been taken on any future course of action."

The judgement was made following a lengthy planning inquiry in the summer during which Lord Derby's team was opposed by representatives of Godolphin, Jockey Club Estates and others as part of the Tattersalls Group, Forest Heath District Council and the Save Historic Newmarket Action Group (SHNAG).

Rachel Hood of SHNAG said: "We are not surprised because our legal advice was that the Secretary of State's decision was sound so we were not expecting any challenge and we are pleased Lord Derby is accepting the Secretary of State's decision."

Rachel said the Secretary of State's dismissal of the appeal had acted to safeguard the town.

She added: "The decision really will have ended up protecting a lot of jobs and the important and delicate ecosystem of Newmarket."

The minister made his decision on the grounds that building 1,200 homes in the area would be premature because policy was not in place laying out the number of homes needed in the district and where they should go.

The policy is being reviewed by Forest Heath District Council.

Auction is final event at school

LOTS of lots are going under the hammer to help one of Newmarket's middle schools go out with a bang.

Scalback Middle School is hoping £2,000 will be raised at the auction taking place at the school on Saturday.

The money raised will be split between Scalback and Stepping Stones Pre-School in Exning.

Scalback's share will help finance the events planned to celebrate the legacy of the 40-year-old school, which include a community day and a week of activities for its students in July.

The middle school is closing in the summer as part of the reorganisation of education in the county, which is losing its tier of middle schools.

Fran Hobbs, part of Scalback's celebrations committee, a mum at the school and a member of support staff, said: "We wanted to try and keep spirits high and we wanted to make it close with a bang rather than it be a sad moment."

Will Axon of the BBC2 show Flog It! will be the auctioneer at the event and among the lots will be a painting created during the evening by Newmarket artist Jacqui Jones.

Bidders will also be able to get their hands on treats including a day pass for Newmarket Racecourses, a weekend's use of a luxury car and a spa day for two.

Doors for the adults-only event will open at 7pm and the auction will kick off half an hour later. For more information, call the school on (01638) 569010 or find the Scalback Middle celebration committee on Facebook.

Vincent visions as pupils prepare for primary move

PAINTING sessions have taken place as part of a bigger picture of children preparing for the relocation of their primary school.

Youngsters spent two days painting in the style of Van Gogh at Tuddenham Primary School – and they will finish their pictures off in the new school year at St Christopher's in Red Lodge.

Kathryn McMurtary, the school's headteacher, said: "We just felt for the older children it would be a link between the old school and the new school. Rather like when you move house, you take a favourite toy – we thought it would be nice to take a painting."

The students are moving to the new and bigger school as part of the reorganisation of Suffolk's education system, which will see the county lose its tier of middle schools and primaries expand to cater for year six students.

Mrs McMurtary said: "We are looking forward to the move because it will be a lovely new-build with a lot of facilities, but it's like moving out of an old house and leaving a lot of memories behind. We have been very happy and very successful here, it's just making sure the same happens in the new school which I'm sure it will do."

Tuddenham Primary was recently awarded a grant of £9,938 by the Big Lottery Fund which will pay for some of the events lined up to celebrate the school's history and the move.

Water softener firm talks from the Hart

THERE are numerous advantages to installing a water softener, particularly now there's a reliable local firm offering competitive deals right on your doorstep.

Hart Water, based in Haverhill, is a brand new company established by Jackie and Adrian Hart, who has 12 years' experience in the industry. The firm, which is set to cover a wide area including Haverhill, Saffron Walden and Newmarket, sells and installs water softeners, filters, purifiers and salt, as well as offering services to existing softeners.

Adrian explains: "There are lots of reasons to soften your water including removing the limescale from your appliances, meaning everything from your boiler to your washing machine will last longer. Also it's good for your skin, leaving it softer, and means you can cut down on your cleaning, as it tends to reduce the amount of products you will need to use by a third."

Installations, which are available for both domestic and commercial properties, generally take between three and five hours, and Adrian believes with regular maintenance a good quality water softener can last forever. Hart Water only stocks softeners from two top quality British firms, which come with their own warranties (which can be extended), as well as offering a guarantee on all work completed.

For more information, contact Hart Water on (01440) 713095 or 07856775060 or visit www.hartwater.co.uk.

Fire crews free trapped child

FIREFIGHTERS were called to a child locked in her home.

A fire engine from Newmarket attended a property in Laureate Gardens in Newmarket, just after 8pm last Saturday, after reports of a young child trapped inside a bathroom.

Crews discovered the youngster to be distressed and got to work releasing her using small tools.

They managed to quickly get the door open and reunited mother and daughter.

The fire crew had returned to their station by 8.30pm.

House burglars flee with 4x4

BURGLARS have stolen items from a Moulton home – including the keys for a 4x4 in the driveway.

They broke into the house in Newmarket Road at about 1pm on Tuesday, May 15, and searched several rooms before taking an old laptop, jewellery and keys. The keys were used to steal a blue Mazda, registration X368 TDX, from outside the property.

Two men were seen driving off in the 4x4. One of them is believed to be dark haired, in his mid-20s or 30s and about 5ft 6ins or 5ft 7ins. The second was described as wearing a black beanie hat.

Firefighters put out wood blaze

FIREFIGHTERS extinguished a wood fire in Mildenhall last Thursday.

Reports of a fire off Brandon Road were received just before 5.40pm and a crew from Mildenhall had put out the blaze by 6pm.

Local councillors get key roles in new-look cabinet

SIX councillors have been picked to lead key departments in Forest Heath District Council's cabinet.

The members have been given responsibility for areas including health, families and economic development with the authority's move from a committee system to a leader and cabinet system earlier this month.

Council leader James Waters said: "This is a huge change for Forest Heath and a good one as we'll be able to work quicker and better. We can grab opportunities when they come up to make our district an even better place for business, and work more quickly with our frontline councillors to deliver real benefits to their local communities."

Iceni ward councillor Rona Burt has taken charge of planning, housing and transport, Warwick Hirst, who represents Severals, is responsible for health, leisure and culture while David Bowman, who represents Eriswell and the Rows, is portfolio holder for economic development and tourism.

Nigel Roman, deputy leader of the council and member for Great Heath, is cabinet member for environment and waste, Robin Millar of Newmarket's All Saints ward is in charge of families and communities and Stephen Edwards of Brandon East is portfolio holder for resources, governance and performance.

A spokesman for the council said: "The change will help to streamline the decision-making process, making it quicker and simpler to react quickly to opportunities and challenges."

Matters to be discussed by the cabinet will appear on the council's website each month so people can ask questions and have their say before a decision is taken. Decisions made by the cabinet or individual members of the group will also be published on the website.

If the council's overview and scrutiny committee has concerns about decisions taken, they can be 'called in' for further study but the cabinet does not have to implement changes suggested by the committee.

Jacquie's brush with theatre

COLOUR ME HAPPY: Jacquie Jones gets to grips with the backdrop for Whistle Down The Wind

Picture: Keith Heppell 827457

JACQUIE Jones is painting the scenery for the UK's first amateur production of one of Andrew Lloyd Webber's musicals.

The Newmarket artist is creating the backdrops for Whistle Down the Wind, which the town's Nomads are staging later this month.

Theatre scenery is a first for the artist famous for her horse paintings but she said she is enjoying the challenge.

She said: "This is a first for me and I'm thoroughly enjoying being part of the theatre community. To be able to paint an American landscape in my own style and design it from an audience's perspective is a refreshing experience. It is challenging but rewarding as you see each piece of the scene unfold. It is like I'm making a statement on a huge scale."

The project also sees Jacquie and her daughter, Giselle White, work together for the first time. Jacquie said: "It is a dream come true to be painting alongside my daughter and a wonderful experience for us to share."

Gail Baker, the show's director, said: "We are delighted to have got Jacquie and Giselle on board, particularly as this is such an important production for us – the first amateur company in the UK to be performing Whistle Down the Wind."

The musical will open at Newmarket's Kings Theatre on Monday, May 28 and runs until Saturday, June 2. For more information and tickets, call the box office on (01638) 663337.

Thieves torch stolen Morris

THIEVES have stolen a Morris Mini from outside a Red Lodge home.

The blue car was snatched from a parking bay in Russett Drive between 6pm on May 13 and 8.55am the following day.

It was found later burnt out in Hockwold in Norfolk.

Artists paint the town

ARTISTS lined the streets for the first Newmarket Art Fair.

Sixteen local talents including Emily Jarvis, Rodney Bastable and Jac Butt put up their easels in Sun Lane and got to work on May 12 and 13.

Most turned out for a second session in the spotlight the following day.

Visitors who poured in from around the area were able to commission work, strike up conversations with the artists and watch them in action.

Regina Raycheva, of the Sun Lane Craft Gallery who organised the fair, said galleries tend to keep artists at arm's length from customers for commercial reasons, but the event was designed to do just the opposite, with people able to give direct feedback on artists' work.

She said: "The point was for them to meet people and for people to meet them."

Severals football plan splits opinion

■ JENNIE BAKER

HOLDING football matches on the Severals in Newmarket would be "a recipe for disaster", according to a town councillor.

Kevin Parsons, manager of the Waggon and Horses team of stable staff, asked whether games could be staged at the site rather than George Lambton Playing Fields at Newmarket Town Council's leisure services committee.

But speaking at the meeting, Cllr Jacko Fanshawe said families and others would be put off relaxing on the green by the risk of being hit by a football and the noise of a match.

On Sundays, she said, ponies and horses are taken on the heath. She suggested football games could cause accidents.

She said: "Horses and ponies will be very skittish walking by the Severals if there is a football match going on and I just feel it would be a recipe for disaster."

She added: "In the winter the grass would get trashed and far from it being an attractive area for people to be greeted with on entering the centre of Newmarket it would become an eyesore."

Cllr Fanshawe said while she sympathised with Mr Parsons, the solution was to make the team's existing venue cleaner and safer.

Mr Parsons said the Severals' central location would be perfect for the players and it promised to encourage more spectators.

He said the team, which plays as part of the Cambridge and District Sunday Football League, would be looking to hold about 15 games a year there.

Speaking after the meeting, he said that while the George Lambton Playing Fields were usable, there was an issue with dog mess and the changing rooms and showers could do with updating or expanding.

He said: "It just needs a bit of modernisation in there, it's usable but compared to a lot of other places we play around Cambridge it's very poor.

"We play there and it's fine - we don't mind playing on there - but we just thought if we could get a pitch on the Severals it would be nice to have one."

Cllr Mick Jefferys said at the meeting: "I would like to state that cricket on the Severals, as far as I can tell, has been a great success because it has brought sport into the centre of Newmarket, it has brought that wonderful atmosphere of the community taking part and people watching, and it has brought life to the Severals."

He said the pavilion on the green was intended for additional sports to the cricket currently played there and suggested the possibility of having a football pitch on the Severals should be investigated.

Councillors opted by five votes to four to investigate the football proposal further.

CHELSEA FLOWER SHOW: Year-round tips for the gardener

VISITORS to this year's RHS Chelsea Flower Show will no doubt see spring flowers in bloom long after their natural flowering period, while late summer perennials and other flowering plants will be brought forward in artificial conditions to ensure they are flowering for the event.

But Arne Maynard, garden designer of the Laurent-Perrier Bicentenary Garden at this year's show, says his aim is to create a usable 'gardeners' garden' that works through all seasons.

It's his second garden for Chelsea – the first won Best in Show in 2000 in collaboration with Piet Oudolf – and Maynard comments: "The garden is designed to be an inspirational yet achievable realisation of enduring elegance – something that can be grown and enjoyed in a real situation. It will bear fruit and provide flowers throughout the year, with each element having its time to shine."

Low-level topiary and pleached copper beech trees provide structure and beautiful colour all year round, as the copper beech leaves turn a stunning golden colour over winter.

Topiary box act as 'sentinels' or markers in the garden, drawing the eye to particular points of interest, while a specimen pear tree creates grandeur and will bear fruit in autumn.

Rich, deep burgundy, soft pinks and pale lilacs make up the colour scheme and plants which add a romantic veil during the summer months include roses, poppies (Papaver somniferum 'Double Black' and 'P. Double Lilac' are particular gems), as well as salvias, geraniums and dianthus.

"Creating a garden with year-round interest, for most gardeners, is a gradual process," he says.

"It takes time to gather plants that work well in the different aspects of a garden and to work out successful plant combinations."

"There are no rules governing how you create year-round effect, but there are a few things you can do to ensure your garden is constantly evolving."

He offers the following tips to create a garden with year-round interest.

■ UNDERSTAND YOUR GARDEN. Look at its aspect, soil type and consider the effect you are hoping to create. Your choice, whether it be a neat, clipped look, or a billowy, natural feel, will affect your choice of plants.

■ VISIT A LOCAL NURSERY OR GARDEN CENTRE EVERY MONTH FOR IDEAS. Look for colours that will suit a particular area of your garden and include flowers and foliage. Look for unusual textures and differing heights. Check the labels to see what height and breadth the plant is likely to reach in maturity as this will determine where you place it in the bed.

■ LOOK FOR PLANTS THAT SEEM TO THRIVE IN NEIGHBOURS' GARDENS AND FOR THOSE THAT APPEAR NATURALISED IN HEDGEROWS OR FIELDS. These are the building blocks for your planting scheme and are sure to do well in your soil.

■ DON'T BE AFRAID OF TREES. Even in small gardens, a well-placed tree can set everything else off. "I think all gardens should have at least one fruit tree, which can be trained or pruned to keep the shape neat," Maynard says. He loves using topiary in his designs and stresses that a well-chosen tree can add either a contemporary feel or bring a touch of tradition to a garden.

■ TRY TO KEEP YOUR PLANTING SCHEME TIGHT. Either choose a colour scheme or a limited palette of plants, to ensure your garden feels like one whole space rather than a series of separate spaces. Repeat a few plants throughout the scheme to give the garden an elegant simplicity.

■ The 2012 RHS Chelsea Flower Show. The Royal Hospital, Chelsea, runs from May 22-26. For details, visit www.rhs.org.uk/chelsea. To buy tickets, call 0844 338 0338.

Life after Potterland

FRESH out of Anglia Ruskin University with an illustration degree under his belt, Thomas Taylor dropped off his portfolio at a London publisher, and was delighted to land his first professional commission.

The brief? To design the cover of a new book, by an unknown author, about a certain young wizard called... Harry Potter.

In the 15 years since creating the iconic cover for Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone, Thomas has written and illustrated more than 10 picture books for children, and has just penned his first novel.

A thriller for readers aged 10 and above, Haunters is being launched at a special event at Heffers in Cambridge tomorrow, which will be like coming home for Thomas – he worked at Heffers' Children's Shop for five years in the 1990s.

But he's bracing himself for the wizard-related questions that will inevitably crop up.

"I never really have an awful lot to say about it, that's the problem," he confides.

"I just happened to drop off my samples at the right time: among them I had a dragon or two, and some wizards, and they decided to give it to me."

Back then, he adds, nobody had heard of JK Rowling: "It was an unknown book by an unknown author, so an unknown illustrator seemed appropriate, I suppose."

"They gave me the book to read, and there's a passage early on where Harry is described, so I just went ahead and did my best." Did he have any inkling, when he read it, that it'd become a global phenomenon?

"No, I can't say that I did," admits Thomas. "I did enjoy it, but I didn't think 'wow, this is going to be the next big thing'. It just seemed like a great little adventure."

PICTURE PERFECT: Illustrator Thomas Taylor is set to launch his first novel.

Still, it's a very nice calling card.

Thomas's only regret, in fact, is not buying a first edition: only 450 were printed ("we had 10 in Heffers!") and by the time the publishers sent him one, it was already on its second edition.

Naturally, Thomas is hoping there'll be plenty of editions of Haunters, and he admits he's particularly pleased with it.

"It's a supernatural thriller about people who can travel in time using their dreams."

"When they get there they're perceived as ghosts, where they can either help people in the past, or haunt them, in order to try and make them behave differently and change the course of history."

It sounds pretty scary: "It's not really. There's a lot about fear in there, but it's exciting, it's not meant to scare the reader – although the cover looks pretty scary!"

Yet it's a far cry from the rather gentler picture books Thomas usually writes, which include the likes of Little Mouse and the Big Cupcake and Jack's Tractor.

"It's quite a big leap," he agrees, "but actually I've always wanted to write novels, I've just been a bit cowardly about getting round to trying it. But it's worked out OK so far, and I think fiction is where my real home is."

Still, Thomas will never be able to entirely distance himself from THAT book: "Harry Potter gave me a magical start to my career and I'm very grateful to him for that. He also gave me my 15 minutes of bar-room fame one Cambridge evening during the legendary Bird in Hand pub quiz," he adds.

"The quiz master, who didn't know me at all, asked: 'How is Thomas Taylor related to Harry Potter's JK Rowling?'"

"I was stunned, but at least I knew the answer."

■ Thomas Taylor will launch Haunters at Heffers in Trinity Street at 6.30pm tomorrow. The event is non-ticketed, but book your place in advance by calling (01223) 463224.

Alfie's act certain to be a riot

AFTER 18 years serving with the Humberforce force, Alfie Moore, pictured above, certainly has a lot of stories to tell. And after five years working the clubs, he knows how to tell them. In this show, the bobby-turned-comic talks about the history of protest and riots (including ones that he has been personally involved in), with lots of digressions regarding his experiences on the beat. From the Nika riot in 532 AD through the May Day riots in 1517, right up to date with the recent English summer knockabouts, Alfie talks about what causes these incidents and what it feels like to be on the other side of the riot shield. So come along and find out what it's like to be on the front line dealing with the most challenging awkward squad of them all: the general public.

■ Alfie Moore: I Predict A Riot, The Junction, Friday May 25 at 8pm. Tickets are £12 (£10 concessions). Contact (01223) 511511 / www.junction.co.uk.

Music's special K Adam back on new tour

DYNAMIC indie band Kasabian bring their live, sold-out O2 gig to Cambridge Vue via a high-definition, state-of-the-art film which includes unique footage of the band's entire show.

It offers a unique experience for fans in Cambridge to see the band live in action, and features the very latest in visual and sound technology.

The Leicester-based band took the music world by storm in the early 2000s, mixing traces of the Stone Roses, Happy Mondays, and Primal Scream with Oasis-sized confidence and DJ Shadow-influenced electronics. Since then, Kasabian have gone on to produce millions of records and sell-out tours, win numerous awards and achieve recognition as one of the UK's most exciting and groundbreaking acts. The band's 10-date nationwide tour in 2011 followed the release of their chart topping fourth album Velociraptor!.

Kasabian Live! Live At The O2, features the band's entire live performance from the London O2 Arena at the end of last year, including the album's hit singles Fire, Days Are Forgotten, Goodbye Kiss and Thick as Thieves.

Tom Meighan, lead singer of Kasabian said: "We love the film, it brings something different for our fans who can see us up close on the big screen! The sound and visuals absolutely rock and we could not be more excited about the results. This was a truly memorable tour for us and an unforgettable night, and we love the fact it has been captured on film in such a brilliant way."

■ Kasabian Live! Live At The O2, Cambridge Vue, The Grafton Centre, May 30 at 8pm. Tickets are £8.95 (concessions available). Contact 08712 240240 / www.myvue.com.

THEY'RE ON THEIR WAY: Kasabian show off their sold-out O2 gig at the Cambridge Vue.

YOU wait years for an Adam Ant show – and then three come along at once.

Following his two Cambridge gigs in 2011, pop's Prince Charming is bringing his 2012 Blueblack Hussar Tour to the Corn Exchange on November 28. Expect to hear pop classics such as Ant Music, Prince Charming and Stand and Deliver – plus seminal punk-era cuts like Physical – alongside songs from his forthcoming album, Adam Ant is the Blueblack Hussar in Marrying the Gunner's Daughter (try fitting that on your iPod screen).

Support comes from Georgie Girl (that's Georgina "Sachsgate" Baillie, fact fans) and her Poussez Posse. Tickets are £25/27.50 from (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk.

Deacon milestone

THIS year marks the 25th anniversary of the release of Deacon Blue's brilliant debut album, Raintown. To celebrate, the band are reuniting to record a new studio album (due September 2012) and head out on a full UK tour in the autumn, including a date at Cambridge Corn Exchange on October 14. Singer-songwriter Ricky Ross said: "Our 25th anniversary has been looming, and I hoped the band and I could release new material to celebrate."

"I've been writing songs with Deacon Blue in mind for a few years now, and it's great to be back in the studio in Glasgow getting these tracks down. I can't wait to get them out on the road!" Tickets are £29.50/34.50 – call (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk.

MEN IN BLACK 3 (3D)
Certificate PG, 1h45m

THIRD time's a charm for the sharp-suited Men In Black, who rediscover their swagger 10 years after the lacklustre second instalment.

Set largely in July 1969, MIB3 is a time-travelling caper which ties up loose threads in a neat bow, suggesting this could and perhaps should be the end of the Smith and Jones double-act.

It would be an entertaining swansong for a franchise which burst onto the big screen in 1997 and became one of the year's biggest hits behind Titanic and The Lost World: Jurassic Park. Director Barry Sonnenfeld imbues each breathlessly orchestrated scene with impish humour, from a protracted kiss that churns stomachs to a slime-splattered skirmish with a giant fish.

The film opens in the Lunar Max high security prison where a Boglodite assassin called Boris

The Animal (Jermaine Clement) engineers a daring escape with help from his sexy girlfriend (Nicole Scherzinger). The snarling supervillain plans to travel back in time and kill the man who put him behind bars and shot off his left arm: Agent K (Tommy Lee Jones).

The ripple effect causes Agent K to disappear from the future, heralding a full-scale Boglodite invasion of Earth.

Having ascertained the past has been altered, Agent J (Will Smith) also travels back to 1969 where he meets the young Agent K (Josh Brolin), who claims to be 29 years old.

With assistance from the young Agent O (Alice Eve) and an otherworldly soothsayer called Griffin (Michael Stuhlbarg), J races against the clock to save his best friend from annihilation.

Men In Black 3 initially treats us to Smith and Jones in full flow.

Once the plot steps back in time, Brolin broadly captures the deadpan delivery and mannerisms of Jones's elder incarnation.

Add some prestige to your pondlife

by Hannah Stephenson

If you've ever walked past an ornamental lake and marvelled at the fish in the water, perhaps it's time to introduce some fish into your own pond.

While water in a garden can create an air of peace and tranquillity, fish can provide extra character and movement and will quickly learn to respond to their owners, although it isn't a great idea to tame them.

However, you can't just pick out a pretty one from an aquatic centre and take it home and hope for the best. There are several important considerations before you begin.

Firstly, the pond needs to be of an adequate size to accommodate the fish and give them the best chance of survival. The rule of thumb is to allow 1cm of fish body length for every 60 sq cm of pond surface.

The pool also needs an area at least 75-110cm (30-39in) deep which will remain ice-free, giving the fish a resting place in winter. If you're hoping to keep koi carp, this area will need to be deeper – around 1.2m (4ft).

IN THE SWIM: Koi, an ornamental species of carp, are highly prized by the Japanese for their exotic colouring and marking.

The most obvious choice for a small pond is the common goldfish. Go to a reputable aquatics centre and select fish which are small and compact, look alert and active, are swimming well and not looking listless or unhealthy. Avoid those with torn fins, fluffy growths or blood stains on them.

More exotic goldfish, such as twintails and fantails, do better in aquariums rather than ponds. Golden orfe are surface swimmers and need a pond at least 3m (10ft) long as they may jump out of smaller ponds if startled. They make excellent display fish, but grow quite large so are not suitable for smaller pools. Other suitable fish for ponds include shubunkins and golden comet.

If you have a larger pond you can consider keeping koi, an ornamental species of carp which are much prized by the Japanese for their exotic colouring and marking. Always buy koi only from a reputable source and make sure that your garden is secure, as large or well-coloured specimens are extremely valuable.

When you are creating a new pond, make sure the plants are established and the water is clear and balanced before introducing any fish. A six-month period will allow the water plants to grow, providing some shade and a few hiding places, while the oxygenating plants have time to become established.

Floating foliage will give fish shade and cover from herons and other predators, while all the plants in and around the edges of the pond take up fish waste matter with their roots and help to keep the water in good condition.

Suitable plants for ponds include iris, nymphaea, Acorus calamus and Butomus umbellatus. Canadian pondweed is good for the water if you have fish, as it's an evergreen which keeps oxygenating the pond all year round and you don't need to plant it. Bunches are sold weighted down at one end and will root into the debris which builds up in the bottom. However, it is invasive and will need to be thinned out several times in the summer to stop it taking over.

Let fish acclimatise to the water gradually. It's a good idea to let them float in a plastic bag on the surface for an hour until the water adjusts to pond temperature and then open the bag and let them swim out.

Pond fish are cold-blooded and the amount of food they need depends upon their activity, which is closely tied to the water temperature. Goldfish and koi become very sluggish below 8-10C and it is generally best not to feed them when daytime temperatures fall below 10C or if there is any night-time ice on the pond. Feeding at too low a temperature can result in food being uneaten and polluting the water.

Even when it is mild enough, feed only lightly until warmer weather arrives. Special foods are available for cool weather feeding that are more readily digested. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations on when to feed and use a pool thermometer if necessary to monitor water temperature. Feeding during the milder days of autumn can help to build fish up for their winter 'down time', and feeding in the warmer days of spring will help them to recover from the winter. When really cold weather finally arrives, it's best to stop feeding altogether.

The Camaro is back!

MOT failure data offers useful reliability picture

ANALYSIS of 24.5 million MOT records has revealed that one in five cars registered in 2008 failed their first MOT, with testers most likely to fail cars from French firms Renault, Citroen and Peugeot.

The research by honestjohn.co.uk involved examining tens of millions of records obtained from the Vehicle Operator and Services Agency through the Government's OpenData scheme.

The data shows that between October 1, 2010 and September 30, 2011, one in five cars (352,000 in total) failed their first MOT.

The most common reasons were lighting and signalling

(164,837 fails), followed closely by tyres (96,760 fails), headlight aim (82,555 fails) and issues with the driver's view of the road (80,605 fails).

European manufacturers are at the bottom of the table for first MOT failures. The worst performer, Renault, was followed by the British-built Mini, with Citroen taking third from bottom.

A surprise addition to the bottom 10 list, given that its cars are traditionally a byword for durability, is Volvo, with more than 5,800 of the Swedish manufacturer's 26,000 2008-registered cars failing their first MOT.

By contrast, the top three places go to Lexus, Suzuki and Honda, with troubled Swedish maker Saab in at number four.

Broken down by model, the detailed data reveals that the worst performing family car was the Renault Mégane, with only 71 per cent of cars registered in 2008 passing their first MOT.

The top model was the Suzuki Splash with a 90 per cent pass rate in its first MOT.

Top 5 pass rates by maker:

1. Lexus
2. Suzuki
3. Honda
4. Saab
5. Toyota

Bottom 10 pass rates by maker:

1. Renault
2. Mini
3. Citroen
4. Chevrolet
5. Peugeot

Chevrolet's 2012 Camaro on sale

THE long-awaited Chevrolet Camaro arrived in the area last week.

The Camaro starts at £34,995 for the manual Coupe, and £36,495 for the auto Coupe. The manual Convertible is £39,995, and £41,495 for the auto. The only other options are for colour and where you want your stripes to go.

Rob Huff, on the left above with Cambridge Chevrolet general manager Luke Gordon, is the World Touring Car Championship driver who drives for Chevrolet and resides in Newmarket, took delivery of the first supercar to be delivered in the UK, in a fetching fiery shade called Inferno Orange.

"She's a big girl but it's a great drive," Huff said of the 6.2-litre V8, adding: "At the end of the day, being the UK ambassador for Chevrolet, I thought I should set an example really."

Quite so! So what's the 0-60 shunt like, Rob?

"0-60? I went for the auto option with the manual paddle system which takes you into complete manual, that is the auto won't override it, so the 0-60 is around 5.6 seconds whereas for the manual it would be 5.4."

So Boxster territory?

"It's very much in the Boxster/M3 speed figure but obviously it's a much bigger and heavier car and I have to say I'm impressed with the balance. American cars are excellent on a straight line, of course, but this is responsive on a track and there's lots of grip, plus it's surprisingly spacious and comfortable. Plus of course with the history of the Camaro you go down streets and kids are pointing saying 'Look, it's that car'. This is a car that everyone loves because of the history."

The pointing, of course, comes because of the prominent role the Camaro plays in Transformers, and the 1960s Camaro will always be a legend in its own right. Indeed, Huff is planning to drive a rare Roger Penske Camaro at Goodwood this summer.

"There's two events," he says of the possibility. "The first is the Hill Climb which I'll do in the 2012 edition, and I'll do timed runs in the Penske. "Meanwhile I'm running it as an everyday car and will use it at events."

Those events will include the Two Counties Motor Show next month. Find out more from Cambridge Chevrolet on (01223) 873673.

UP FOR THE CUPS: Lakenheath line up after adding the Snailwell Cup to the Kershaw Premier Cup SPO826896

Avis swoops to seal cup double

SHAUN Avis grabbed the winner as Lakenheath claimed a cup double after beating West Wrattling in the Snailwell Cup final.

The hosts went into the final having already collected the Kershaw Premier Cup the previous week, but they fell behind after Wrattling's Danny Hills lobbed the keeper on 20 minutes.

Luke Butcher equalised with a 25-yard blast after snatching the ball off Tom Attwood around the half-hour, before the unmarked Avis headed home midway through the second half. Lakenheath player-manager Colin Vowden said: "We played much better than in the other final and it could have been more than 2-1.

"They didn't play much at all, but the main thing is we won and it's another bit of silverware, so two cups in the end is a decent return."

» GIBBS DENLEY EAST ANGLIAN PREMIER LEAGUE

KIERAN Toner's hard work was not enough to prevent Burwell losing to two-time champions Swardston by five wickets.

The hosts were put in to bat after captain Paul Summerskill lost the toss, and Chris Summerskill soon perished for one. Toner and William Lawton rebuilt the innings and got their team back on track with a 72-run partnership for the second wicket.

Lawton departed for 31, but Toner was not finished and forged a 49-run stand with skipper Paul Summerskill (15).

However, Daniel Jones, who hit 18, was the only other batsman to really trouble the scorers and Toner went for 66, with Burwell dismissed for 156 in the 45th over.

Mark Thomas was the bowler who caused most of the problems, his efforts earning him 7 for 46.

Swardston did not have everything their own way in reply as Toner continued to have a decent afternoon and West Indian Marlon Samuels also announced his arrival.

Toner picked up 2 for 53 but Samuels was more expensive with 2 for 95.

However, Peter Lambert's quick 49 and an unbeaten 47 from Ian Tufts ensured the away team reached 159 for 5 in the 37th over.

» TUCKER GARDNER CAMBS AND HUNTS PREMIER LEAGUE

GAVIN Harding carried his bat with an undefeated 80 as Fordham won by five wickets at home to Ickwell.

Chris Reay took 3 for 33 and Craig Theobald 3 for 42, before Chamila Mirisearachchi claimed 2 for 9 late on to help bowl the visitors out for 146.

Harding joined Mark Silcock (30) in a second-wicket partnership of 52 before the hosts cruised to 148 for 5 in response.

» MARSHALL HATCHICK TWO COUNTIES CHAMPIONSHIP

NIGEL Brunning claimed five scalps as Haverhill won by 36 runs at home to Exning in Division One.

Exning captain Daren Hayward took 4 for 46 as the hosts were held to 156 for 9. But after opener Peter Woods went for a duck, the visitors' reply fell apart with Brunning taking 5 for 28 and Anthony Phillips 3 for 40 to bowl them out for 120.

Racing

How high can he go?

DOMINIC Gardiner-Hill believes Frankel is capable of taking his rating to even more astonishing levels after the British Horseracing Authority's handicapper allotted the colt a mark of 138 for his victory in Saturday's JLT Lockinge Stakes at Newbury.

The decision to raise him 2lb from last season's 136 makes Frankel officially the highest-rated horse in the world for 25 years.

Prince Khalid Abdullah's unbeaten and 10-time winner can only be trumped by the same owner's Dancing Brave (141 in 1986), although the World Thoroughbred Rankings scale has been lowered slightly since that time.

Frankel leaves behind Peintre Celebre and Generous on 137 and Sea The Stars on 136.

Gardiner-Hill was no different to the entire racing community in being impressed by Frankel's fourth and most clear-cut defeat of Excelebration, as the son of Galileo brushed off any fears over a slightly interrupted preparation.

"I do think he can go higher," said the handicapper on Monday.

"I watched the Lockinge again today and, to be honest, he did it very easily.

"To go higher he is going to have to beat something other than Excelebration, whether it is going to be a horse like Cirrus Des Aigles, we will have to wait and see.

"I do suspect he can be a 140-horse – it just depends if he gets the opportunity.

"You only have the opportunity to push horses higher on what they beat. If you look at

Frankel's officially the best for 25 years

Excelebration, Frankel beat him by four lengths on two occasions last year, by two-and-a-quarter on another, and this went up to five lengths on Saturday.

"In the case of Dubawi Gold, he was beaten by seven and three-quarter lengths in the QEII and this went up to nine on Saturday. One factor for this is the pace as I thought Ian Mongan set the race up perfectly on Bullet Train."

Frankel will now be rated 6lb higher than the second-placed horse in the current international rankings, Australian sprinter Black Caviar (132), who is due to arrive in the country next month for her first overseas test at Royal Ascot.

While Black Caviar heads for the Diamond Jubilee Stakes, a run for Frankel in the Queen Anne Stakes at the same meeting is the preference of Sir Henry Cecil, who said: "Over the last two seasons he has come on a good deal from his first race and, hopefully, he will do the same this season.

"All being well his next start will be at Ascot in either the Queen Anne or the Prince of Wales's, the former being my first preference at the moment, but we will see."

Cecil also reiterated his thanks to his staff after Frankel overcame an injury scare last month, and to Mongan and his regular lead-horse and pacemaker Bullet Train.

He said: "Shane Fetherstonhaugh and all those involved with him have done a great job and his success is down to team-work."

IN BRIEF

Red's double mission

RED Cadeaux will run at either Epsom (Coronation Cup) or Royal Ascot (Hardwicke Stakes) and then be given a holiday before being prepared for the Melbourne Cup in November.

The ultra-consistent globe-trotter, placed in Group Ones in Australia and Hong Kong late last year, tasted victory for the first time in 11 months at York with a game success over Glen's Diamond in the Sportingbet-sponsored Group Two Yorkshire Cup.

Still Rocking

SOCIETY Rock is likely to head straight to Royal Ascot without another run after finishing third in the Duke of York Stakes.

The James Fanshawe-trained sprinter returned to form in the Group Three at York when only half a length behind the winner, Tiddilwinks. He is next due to be seen in the Diamond Jubilee Stakes at the Royal meeting on June 23.

Owner to decide if
worthy

OWNER George Strawbridge must decide whether Thought Worthy runs in the Investec Derby next week following his hard-fought victory in the poptelecom.co.uk Fairway Stakes at Newmarket on Saturday.

It was five years ago that Thought Worthy's brother, Lucarno, took the mile-and-a-quarter Listed prize before going on to finish fourth to Authorized at Epsom. Strawbridge went on to taste Classic success with Lucarno in the St Leger, and trainer John Gosden is viewing the Doncaster race as a long-term target.

Jockey William Buick was headed by Farhaan two furlongs out on Thought Worthy before fighting back in a four-way finish to pip Frankel's brother Noble Mission by a neck.

Gosden said: "He showed a lot of guts but is screaming out for a mile and a half. He is still in the Derby and the owner is a sportsman – he will make the decision.

"The King Edward VII (Royal Ascot), we could look at that, and the owner likes that race on Town Moor (St Leger) in the middle of September as well."

Trainer Roger Varian pointed to the better ground as the reason why Aljamaaheer (100-30) put a below-par run at Newbury behind him with victory in the poptelecom.co.uk King Charles II Stakes.

Frankie Dettori brought the Roger Charlton-trained Mince from an unpromising position to score by a head from Bartolomeu in the £40,000 coralchampionsclub.co.uk Sprint Trophy.

The Italian rider then secured a double aboard 8-1 chance Handsome Man in the concluding poptelecom.co.uk Cheap International Calls Handicap.

Olefir storms clear to win at Wimpole

NEWMARKET Joggers' Denys Olefir won his second event in successive weeks when he dominated the inaugural Wimpole 10k.

The multi-terrain race – which attracted 447 entries – on the picturesque estate between Royston and Cambridge took in woodland, fields and parkland with a couple of hills that made it more like a cross-country race – particularly given the tough conditions underfoot.

However, Olefir was not put off, crossing the line in 38min 25sec, more than three minutes clear of runner-up Mark Wilsner (Royston Runners), who finished in 41:52.

Joggers' next finisher was Fernando Montesso, who was 12th in 43:54, while Ursula White who clocked 44:49, was the second woman home.

She was followed in by Clive Purbrook (49:28, 79th), Sue Stoten (55:59, 185th) and Mary Marsh (57:20, 211th).

Mark Childs ran a personal best when he joined the field of more than 10,000 runners in the Bristol 10k, a highly-competitive race which attracted more than 10,000 runners.

Childs finished 199th in 39min 17sec.

Swimming

Squad takes chance

THE Newmarket contingent at the Last Chance Open at Sudbury (above) certainly rose to the challenge.

As the event name suggests, it was the final opportunity to get qualifying times for the County Development Championships at their home pool next month. And the 12-strong squad did not disappoint, recording 14 new Development QT's and 18 updated times, as well as seven swims that were too fast. The squad was: Thomas Allison, Stuart Root, Safi Axon-Coates, Fred Kirk, Eleanor Frost, Philippa Allison, Vikki Root, Ciara Gill-Ryan, Sarah Nash, Sebastian Munro-Smith, Hamish Munro-Smith and Jessica Sandle-Brownlie.

Angling

Hodges has the edge

EVERY competitor took more than 20lb to the scales at the end of a keenly-contested Newmarket AC match at Rookery Waters. Kelvin Hodges' bag turned out to be the heaviest on the Pidley venue's Jay Lake, his 70lb 8oz comprising mainly carp caught on the pole using luncheon meat over pellet.

Details - 1 Kelvin Hodges (Newmarket) 70lb 8oz, 2 Matt Ayres (Newmarket) 67-6, 3 Gary Rimmer (Newmarket) 66-4, 4 Rob Anstee (Newmarket) 55-4.

John Millard used pellet on a feeder to triumph in the latest Golden Rods Open at Lawn Farm Fisheries. Carp totalling 45lb 8oz were reeled in by the Newmarket-based winner, with runner-up Pete Simons amassing 38-12 on the Elsworth complex's Honeysuckle Lake.

Details - 1 John Millard (Newmarket) 45lb 8oz, 2 Pete Simons (Gamlingay) 38-12, 3 John Rutter (Royston) 32-10.

 Frankel earns highest rating for 25 years after scintillating win at Newbury

A SENSE of pride and dogged determination ensured Oliver Jarvis successfully completed the 40th ADAC-Zurich Nurburgring 24 Hours for the first time on Sunday afternoon. The Newmarket driver and his WRT team suffered some serious setbacks in their Audi R8 LMS ultra but just made it over the finish line to finish 32nd.

"The left-rear wheel bearing was damaged (with an hour to go)," said Jarvis. "We looked to fix it but there wasn't time, so we took the decision to go out with 10 minutes left, so that we're classified as finishers. It's nice to finish out of pride and say we've completed it."

The defining moment of Jarvis' race came just before 2am when co-driver Andrea Piccini hit an Aston Martin back-marker, causing a one-and-a-half hour trip to the pits for a new steering rack.

"We were never in the running to win it (after that)," added Jarvis. "But out of pride we kept pushing. It didn't run as smoothly as we'd hoped but that's the Nordschleife 24 Hours."

"This place is very special. You only have to see the number of accidents and crashes that took place very early on in the race to see that you're lucky if you even finish."

The race was won by the Audi Sport Team Phoenix car driven by Marc Bessing, Christopher Haase, Frank Stippler and Markus Winkelhock.

But for all the drama, Jarvis enjoyed negotiating his way around the famous circuit. "I loved it. It feels so fast because of the nature of the track," he said. "I enjoy going through the traffic as well, putting the car up the inside and being aggressive, it's great fun. Who knows? I might be back next year and be on the podium."

Team pride got us over the line, insists defiant Jarvis

Rob's Cruze-ing now!

ROB Huff put himself right back in the title mix with a brilliant weekend in Salzburg.

The Newmarket-based racer claimed a lights-to-flag win in the first race and followed it with second place in race two to close the gap to team-mate Yvan Muller in the drivers' standings to just eight points.

Huff put his Chevrolet Cruze on pole position for the first time this season, setting the fastest time with less than a minute left of qualifying.

But he had to fight hard to hold off Muller, who twice got alongside his team-mate on the fast uphill section of the circuit but was unable to pass him.

Muller had to settle for second, while Alain Menu completed a Chevrolet 1-2-3.

Afterwards, Huff said: "It was hard work. When you're leading here, it's all about the slipstreaming. You're losing about 10 to 12 kph along the back straight, so to keep Yvan behind me was one of the hardest races I've had."

"It's a fantastic result and exactly what we needed." The day's real drama came in the last few corners of race two as Stefano D'Aste in a BMW benefited from punctures picked up by both Muller and Huff, diving through to claim his maiden WTCC win.

Huff managed to bring his car home second, ahead of Tom Coronel's BMW, but Muller was the big loser as, from leading the race, he eventually limped home eighth.

Huff's day was further improved by Menu failing to finish after sliding off the track on lap 8.

"Going in to turn 10 on the last lap I saw that Yvan locked up and . . . he never turned into the corner," said Huff. (right)

"That gave me

"Going through the right I just under-steered straight off and Tom was already trying to get past me on that side, so we went through the gravel a little bit."

"But I just managed to keep ahead of him to the line. Stefano just went round the outside."

Huff picked up 43 race points, plus five qualifying points, from the weekend, while Muller's total haul was 26 and Menu's 18. It leaves Muller still top of the standings on 206 points, with Huff on 198 and Menu on 175.

Not surprisingly, Chevrolet retain their stranglehold on the constructors' championship with 495 points, with nearest rival BMW way back on 338.

■ The championship moves to Portugal on the weekend of June 2 and 3.

Tigers back

MILDENHALL Fen Tigers return to the track on Sunday with a home National League clash against Rye House Raiders on Sunday (4.30pm). Tigers, who have drawn Stoke Potters in the Knockout Cup semi-finals, are then due to travel to Dudley on Tuesday for a National Shield clash.
